TCVS President

Members of College,

My name is Emily Neeson, and I am running to serve as President of the Trinity College Volunteer Society. A second year student and current Secretary of the TCVS, I am passionate about volunteering and would love to bring my enthusiasm to the position of President.

One of the oldest clubs at Trinity, the TCVS receives a large levy each year. As President, I want to help channel Trinity students' passion for strengthening their resume into assisting those in need in our community. I will accomplish this by inviting members of college to put forward proposals for projects they wish to see happen, engaging the student body in allocating TCVS funds. I hope to extend the April clothing drive to include gently used non-clothing items. When students move off residence, they often have things they no longer need. By including mini fridges, books, and other miscellaneous dorm room items in the drive, we could donate more to our community. As President, I would make an effort to collaborate with other clubs as I believe the TCVS is in an excellent position to assist less well-funded organizations. I would also want to include a section on volunteer opportunities in the GTA to our web presence and newsletter.

I would love to serve as your TCVS President, and believe that I can engage the Trinity community, improve upon TCVS campaigns, and connect students with volunteer opportunities.
