

Salterrae Editor in Chief

DISH THE SALT!

Hi Salt-baes!

I'm here to run for the Editor in Chief position of the 2017 - 2018 Salterrae. Now I know what you guys are thinking - how could Anna POSSIBLY have time to run the Salterrae when she is already Trinity's finest m3m3l0rd, spending countless hours generating the dankest memes this college has ever seen? Well friends, it just so happens that I TROLL about on the execs of many publications all while balancing the fame from my m3m3dom.

#1: I've been a copy editor and writer this year for the Salterrae itself. I manage to squeeze in time to edit all of your saltiest articles between throwing Bathurst BANGERZ and being a full time troll.

#2: I serve as an editor on the Trinity Review. I help select edgy pieces to publish in Trin's literary journal.

#3: I am a staff writer/editor for Demo, Hart House's Music magazine. I'll be their Online Content Editor for 2017-2018!

#4: I've served as a design editor for the Stephanos - aka I did my best to immortalize your most m3m3able moments in book form.

#5: I was a member of Student Capital Campaigns Committee. Yayz for student governance!

If elected, I'll aim to increase the commuter audience of the Salterrae by including more pieces focusing on events happening outside of the walls of Trin, like concert/restaurant reviews. Contrary to popular belief, non Trin events can be fun?!?!?

In short, I intend to keep up the good work done by Maddy and Arjun these past two years.

Thanks for considering me Trin!

XOXO,
Anna <3
