

SHELBY MARTIN

Second Year Female Head of Non-Res

Trinity!

For those who don't know me my name is Shelby Martin and I want to be your second year female head of non-res! I have been extremely involved at Trin this year (even as a commuter- wtf?!) and plan on continuing my involvement as an active college member for years to come.

As a commuter, I completely understand how intimidating the Trin community can be and how easily it is to feel isolated when you don't live here! Trying to balance school, a social life, your daily commute and duties at home can be extremely stressful and really hinder your social experiences here! I have been lucky enough to make lifelong friends both on and off of res and I want every other commuter to have the same opportunities! Walking into Strachan, only to run back to the Buttery... scrolling through Facebook seeing pictures from events you weren't able to make it to because you commute can really suck!

I will aim to create the most positive, welcoming and enjoyable environment for commuters and res students alike. From making high-table dinners more accessible to Buttery party wrist banding -which is not accommodating to commuting students- I want to ensure that it is not my voice being heard, but all of yours. Being a non-res student is just as amazing as living on res and I would love to have the opportunity to prove it to you!

Met'agona,

Shelby Martin
