

Members of College,

My name is Billie, and I am running for treasurer of the Trinity College Mental Health Initiative. As a TCMHI member-at-large throughout the 2016 - 2017 school year, I have had the privilege of gaining a greater understanding of TCMHI's short-term and long-term goals. Efficiently managing TCMHI's budget is pivotal in ensuring these goals come to fruition, and I would be grateful to fulfill this role and further contribute to TCMHI's success.

TCMHI runs a mix of informal and formal events, ranging from art attack de-stressors to panels. It is essential that TCMHI's funds be allocated accordingly so that larger events are ran proficiently (i.e. providing catering, and honorariums for our panel participants), while smaller, recurring events are still able to function (i.e. always providing simple snacks at our stress busters). Managing TCMHI's budget to foster the success of diverse events requires earnest planning and attention to detail, so that every event, big or small, reaches its potential.

Working as communications coordinator of NRAC, sponsorship director of O-week, and deco-coordinator for Conversat have helped me develop strong organizational and communication skills that are integral to successfully managing a budget. Furthermore, I have managed the budget for the Trinity College Fashion Society for three semesters along side my co-president. These experiences, paired with my awareness of TCMHI's inner-workings, have provided me with the discipline and knowledge necessary to manage TCMHI's budget with diligence.

Thank you!

Billie Rose Owen
