

Magi Jury Leung - Male Head of College

Dear Members of College,

“Trinity College can sometimes be intimidating, overwhelming, and exclusive.” - This is exactly how I felt like during my first year at the Trinity College. Ever since I have devoted my time and passion to making this College more inclusive and welcoming. Greetings, my name is Magi Jury Leung, I am currently a third year student majoring in International Relations and Health Studies. This year, I have been serving as the Secretary of the TCM and as a member for various other student committees affiliated with both the College and the University of Toronto. My desire to run for this position is simple – to serve you members of the Trinity College and give back to this loving community. I truly believe that language barriers and cultural diversity should not be the obstacles to stop members of the College to participate in student governance. Trinity College is meant to serve you passionate individuals to become future world leaders regardless of your ethnicity and background differences.

Inclusiveness & Accessibility: For the past several years, the heads' team and TCM have taken concrete steps to ensure the participation of a diverse group of student in Trinity College affairs. For instance, new international-student positions are created in various committees to represent the diversity of this college. At the same time, other student groups such as POC@Trin, TCCSA, Desis of Trin, Rainbow Trinity and the Equity Committee, have made excellent progress in pushing through various initiatives to promote the inclusiveness of this very college. As your future Male Head of College, I promise to give my absolute support to student organizations such as Sober Patrol and non-drinking clubs and support policy such as resident diversification program.

Proposed HoCs goes to: Thanks to co-heads, Nish, and Anthony, 'HoCs go to' was one of the most popular events in the Trinity College committee this year. As your future Male Head of College, I will continue to introduce you members of the College to explore interesting places such as Winterlicious and various local cuisines of any sort in Toronto.

Improvement in the Sexual Assault Policies: Sexual assault issues have been the centre of attention for the past several years and it is a serious issue that must be addressed immediately. Under the current U of T-wide policies, both victims and defendants have to go through tough time to seek the justice that they deserve. I would fight for the more transparent system and partner with student leaders at TASA and the college administration to improve the current policies in place.

External Governances: I am excited to represent Trinity College at the university wide level. With new initiatives such as the SGRT platform in place, I am open to more inter-college events and collaboration on issues such as International student rights, discontinuing the CFS membership, and asking the administration to disinvestment in fossil fuels. I am looking forward to working with other student leaders to make U of T a student orientated university for everyone.

Townhalls and Office hours: I have had the privilege of attending several townhalls and host office hours at Trinity College. I have found that they are both useful ways for the Heads to collect ideas and feedback from other members of college. More and more students are willing to participate and address issues that everyone at Trinity is concerned with. In addition, if I am elected I would welcome communication from anybody, via Facebook, trinlife website or trinthisweek. I will also be more than happy to host office hours from time to time.

More support for First Year Students: I think it's important to help them to adjust to college life in every way possible. To that end, I will be extremely welcoming and friendly, and I will let them know where all the important things are at Trinity. Furthermore, I would like to support the initiatives put forward by the college administration in setting-up a one stop service centre for all members of college. I would like to offer more support to peer counselors by hosting social nights, and other events to make their service more accessible for first year students. If you have any further questions and inquiries, please feel free to directly contact me via Facebook or magijury@gmail.com.

Met'agona, Magi Jury Leung
