

HELLO TRINITY COLLEGE.

And I have loved every god forsaken minute of my time at the Lit.

I would be honoured to serve as your Speaker in the 2017-18 academic year and carry on the tradition of the exceptional leadership that's come before me. I want to foster an executive that is committed to creating an open and welcoming TCLI. The Lit is the highlight of your shitty Wednesday, where you can laugh with half-strangers, and drink warm (FREE) beer. The Lit fucks with the TTC, gets you fucked on champagne, and might even get you fucked. And I want to be the girl to lead it. And as a professional pastry chef, I promise to be the grandmother this college needs, and feed you home-made Nutella donuts. Nutella satisfies the masses.
