

NICHOLAS FERREIRA

Second Year Head of Residence

My fellow first years,

Next year we will relinquish our title of “Worst Year Ever” to 2T1; they won’t be any fun! Yet however bad they turn out, they’ll still have to learn the traditions of this place.

This means that they’ll have to be beaten into submiss — I MEAN WELCOMED during Trinditions Week. In this regard I plan on upholding the authenticity of these events to the best of my ability. I would also ensure that the 2T1s know from the onset of Frosh Week the importance of Trinditions Week.

Another tradition that serves as a reminder of our superiority over the other colleges is High Table. Unfortunately, the majority of the student population attends High Table about as often as I attend ECO105 . To rectify this, I propose themed High Tables, featuring a variety of religious and cultural holidays, such as Hanukkah, Eid Al-Adha, and Nowruz, with culturally appropriate decorations and food. We saw the success of this with the Chinese New Years High Table, which had high attendance.

If you want to talk and get further clarification on any of my proposals, catch me outside, how about that? Or email, whatever you prefer.

— Nick.

- Helped decorate trees for Christmas High Table.
- Lit fires at High Tables because the First Years Heads are incompetent city dwellers and didn't know how.
