

So it seems like I am running for Deputy TCM Chair.
Cool beanz.

So I am qualified because I sit on chairs quite often; specifically, I commute about 3 hours a day (sitting on chairs, seats, benches, etc.) so there's that.

Despite only showing up to TCMs for the Krispy Kreme donuts (not the coffee because caffeine is a drug I am not willing to screw around with that), I am somewhat knowledgeable of the TCM Constitution and how meetings work. I did Model UN like Leslie and Ben in Parks and Rec.

I am aware of what Roles and Responsibilities (<https://trinlifedotnet.files.wordpress.com/2016/03/roles-and-responsibilities-february-2016.pdf>) are associated with this position, and if need be, I can remove my deputy badge and be an strong, independent chair who don't need no stools.
snaps in a Z (pronounced as ZED, not zee) formation)

I would appreciate your vote in becoming TCM Deputy Chair, I promise 2017-2018 TCMs I will be at will be 🔥 !

Peace, love, unicorns and rainbows,
Steven Camit (aka Stevee-O's)

P.S. But seriously, I would be honoured to take on this position. I will work hard and do what is constitutionally necessary to be a Deputy Chair that Trinity College students can be proud of.

Also, this P.S. section formatting is to offset the Comic Sans MS beauty above because contrast.