

Nadim Dabbous – Male Head of Arts

Hey, my name is Nadim and I am running for your Male Head of Arts! I am running because I want to give back to the community that welcomed me when I first came here and gave me a place to call home. I want to strengthen the Trinity community by making social events that cater to all the different groups here at Trin. After acquiring my safeTalk certificate, I realized that we must remove the stigma around mental health and sexual assault by working with student groups and the administration. I want to do this by holding events and hightables that would raise awareness on these issues. Two other main points that I wish to improve in this college are transparency and accessibility, which requires me to advocate several changes in our governance system as well as creating a new platform so that students can be up to date with events, which would be especially helpful for students without facebook.

My involvement in the food advisory committee has allowed me to gain experience in student governance as well as working with the administration. Furthermore, my position as a frosh leader has taught me about leadership and the importance of the Trinity community. Being a frosh leader has especially helped me meet new people and be more involved at Trin. Finally, I served as a member of the executive at the 134th Conversazione and this experience has taught me how to be well organized and carefully help plan events.

One of my main ideas for Trinity and for people who do not wish to use Facebook to find out about upcoming events; is to plan a change in the way that trinlife works, I want to head a new project to make the current trinlife website into a mobile application on apple and android. This way students who do not use Facebook can receive push notifications about upcoming events and register for these events on the application itself. Second, I want to cater events with different groups; to make Trin even more inclusive and get everyone to join our events. Third, I want to plan an additional Heads' Pub Night during the month of March that way we can have another event between Conversat and Quad Party.

If any of you wish to contact me with any questions or want to chat you can email me at nadim.dabbous@mail.ututoronto.ca.

I am looking forward to the forums and I wish good luck to all of the candidates.
